Ken Lum

Necrology

26. November 2016 – 25. Februar 2017

Wir laden Sie und Ihre Freunde herzlich
zur Eröffnung der Ausstellung am Samstag, den 26. November 2016 von 11 – 18 Uhr ein.

In der sechsten Einzelausstellung mit Ken Lum
stellen wir seine neuen Arbeiten vor:

Necrology

Ken Lums neueste Arbeiten sind eine Ableitung heutiger Nachrufe, wie man sie etwa in Lokalzeitungen findet. Diese Kurztexte über „gelebtes Leben“ hat Lum übernommen, jedoch zusammengestellt und ausgestaltet im Stil des Frontispiz eines Romans oder Theaterstücks aus dem 18. und 19. Jahrhundert. Die Arbeiten wurden durch eine Zufallsentdeckung inspiriert, das Titelblatt des Philadelphia Inquirer nach dem Attentat auf US-Präsident Abraham Lincoln. Die Gestaltung des Layouts mit radikal verschiedenen Schriftarten weckten das Interesse des Künstlers ebenso wie die Abhandlung von Lincolns Leben in November 26th, 2016 – February 25th, 2017

You and your friends are cordially invited to the opening
on Saturday, November 26th, 2016
from 11 am – 6 pm.

In the 6th solo exhibition with Ken Lum,
we present his latest series:

Necrology

Ken Lum's most recent works derive from contemporary obituaries found in local newspapers. In Lum's treatment, the obituary serves as a text on lives lived but composed and designed in the mode of 18th and 19th century novel or theatre drama frontispieces. The works are inspired by a chance discovery of the front page of the Philadelphia Inquirer newspaper on the occasion of President Abraham Lincoln's assassination. The front-page layout and design of varying fonts and text piqued the artist's interest. Moreover, the coverage of Lincoln's life was divided into pithy sub-headings all in a single column from top to bottom pointierten „Unterüberschriften“, die sich über die gesamte Titelseite erstrecken und sich wie Kapitelüberschriften eines Menschenlebens lesen. Die nichtproportionalen Schriften, seltsam wechselnden Zeilenabstände und verschiedenen Schriftsätze muten aus heutiger Sicht einerseits befremdlich an, gleichzeitig haben sie auch eine „frische“ Wirkung, so als ob jeder Buchstabe, jedes Wort und jede Zeile einen eigenen vitalen Organismus bildeten. Solche Verfahren in der Darbietung von Texten begegneten einem früher öfters, beispielsweise in Theaterprogrammheften oder Innentiteln von Romanen. Ken Lum empfindet das Verschwinden dieser Darstellungsformen und der damit verbundenen Vorstellungen als einen Verlust literarischer Tradition. Mit seinen Arbeiten setzt der Künstler sein langjähriges Projekt fort, Subjektivität durch verschiedene konzeptionelle Strategien zu evozieren.

of page. In their entirety, the sub-headings read as though chapter titles of a life. The use of irregular kerning, curious and changing spacing between lines and radically altering font seem odd by today's standards, yet it also seems fresh as though each letter, word and line take on an organicism of their own. Such approaches to textual composition could be found in theatre brochures and frontispieces for novels. Ken Lum felt that the disappearing of such approaches represent a kind of literary loss and the ways of imagining associated with them. The works continue Lum's long-standing interest in the project of imagining a subjectivity by way of different conceptual strategies.
